Acknowledgement of Receipt of New Student Orientation Information

The Student Resources website, found at: <https://www.dspt.edu/student-resources>, contains information about the Dominican School of Philosophy and Theology (DSPT), the Graduate Theological Union (GTU), the libraries, student forms, and important campus Safety and Security policies.

Of particular importance is the Student Handbook which gives in-depth information regarding DSPT, program requirements, the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act, plus detailed academic and administrative policies.

I understand that I am expected to read the DSPT Student Handbook, and to be familiar with the other website content. Revisions to the policy statements, procedures, and DSPT Student Handbook may occur and I understand such changes will generally be communicated through official notices and posted at the DSPT website. It is my responsibility to comply with the policies and procedures and any revisions made to them.

I also understand that, according to FERPA regulations, only directory information such as student name, dates of attendance, degree completion, major field of study (for a complete list see Student Handbook) may be shared to third party requests unless written consent is received from the student. Currently enrolled students may withhold disclosure of any of this information under the Privacy Act by submitting a written request to the Registrar.
